About QSecurity Industries...

QSecurity is the new name for a decades-old security technologies and education company headquartered in Nicholasville, Kentucky and owned by Clay Miller and Wes Day. Staff includes industry veterans Deanna DeBorde, Frieda Ellis, Ellis Gibbs, Ryan Griffeth, April Truitt, Lisa Young, & others and is ever expanding. QSecurity Products, QSecurity Education, and QTactical are all divisions of QSecurity Industries, the parent company. Over the years, Lockmasters, LSI and LTI have all called 1014 S. Main Street, Nicholasville, Kentucky home. The 22,000 sq. ft. facility is now the headquarters for all QSecurity Industries divisions - as well as NL Lock.

As for the NL Lock connection, legendary inventor Nick Gartner and Clay Miller have worked both together and separately in the high-security safe lock industry since the late 1960s. With Nick's health declining, in early 2023 he and Clay Miller entered discussions regarding the future of NL Lock. In late August, they inked a deal to transfer the company assets to QSecurity Industries, and on September 5, 2023, Nick passed away, knowing his brainchild had a secure future with an industry veteran and friend who would take his innovations forward.

Nick will forever be in our hearts. He was a friend, colleague, mentor, and a true innovator in the history of lock invention. – Clay Miller

QSecurity Industries is proud to have LockNet, Sargent & Greenleaf, Lockmasters® and MBAUSA as local neighbors.

The exception is - when coupled with an EasyTouch keypad - the keypad is stationary, with the central knob retracting the lock bolt. When using with a Premier or Premier Dallas keypad, order the rotating versions (-Rx suffix). Included spindle accommodates a 5” door thickness. Longer spindles are available. Ships standard with our Basic Board EM35•20, but may be ordered with a DIA EM35•50 or Digital Board EM35•60.
